The Medieval Studies Forum was set up for those interested in the medieval period to share their ideas and take forward research, thus contributing to the body of knowledge of this period. This meeting provides an opportunity for members to share their ongoing research and their aspirations for future projects, to seek the views of others on 'brick walls' or 'stumbling blocks' and a chance to discuss the role the Forum could play in assisting members in enhancing their skills and encouraging potential individual and collaborative research projects.

The following contributions are being made by members:

'Studies by the Surrey Medieval Pottery Study Group' Steve Nelson

'Waverley's daughter abbeys' Peter Balmer

'The founding of Bermondsey Abbey' Graham Dawson

'The West Saxon burh at Eashing' Rob Briggs

Contributions will be welcome on the day. Anyone wishing to make a short presentation within this item please contact Brian Creese.

DIRECTIONS

PARKING

The one-way system and pedestrianised High Street makes Leatherhead somewhat challenging for car drivers and it should be noted that parking at the Institute is extremely limited. However public parking is available at various locations in the town. Many of these places are short stay only, including the parking in the Swan Centre off Lerets Way, which has a maximum stay of 4 hours.

Plenty of Long Stay parking is available in Randalls Road Car Park – charge was 60p for the first hour and 30p for every half hour thereafter. There are a few Long Stay places in the Church Road Car Park. On Saturdays it is possible to park in the large Railway Station Car Park for a flat fee (at the last time of looking it was £3.40). The Institute is about a 10 to 15 minute walk from the Long Stay Car Parks.

LUNCH

There are a variety of establishments in Leatherhead with a fish & chip/burger shop, 2 pubs and 4 cafes/restaurants plus a Greggs in the High Street with further cafes and a pub in Church Street and North Street. Sainsbury's, just off the High Street in the Swan Centre, sells sandwiches etc. and the Swan Centre also has a coffee shop. You are also welcome to bring a packed lunch and eat it in the hall. Tea and coffee will be available in the hall during the lunch break.
